Judges' Comments:

Peter Forrestal

Dense, deep, rich and concentrated plummy characters. A nice fleshiness and velvety, moderate tannins. The oxtail accentuated the fruit and gave the finish a lovely velvety quality.

Stephen Harris

Rich, ripe currants and raspberry spectrum. Lovely, powerful, concentrated palate. Good weight and very ripe, powerful, concentrated fruit. The tannin structure was also ripe with nice, grippy, chewy tannins. A good match with lashings of berry fruit cutting through the oily ox tongue. Then after some length and persistence of flavour, some beautiful, grainy tannin appear.

Ken Dobler

Dark crimson colour. The nose showing perfume and violets. The palate shows a rich, intense, ripe blackberry fruit with a good tannic line. This fruit was accentuated by the food. The wine improved significantly.

Patrick Farrell

Cassis, berry, spicy, oak aromas and flavours. The wine is still tight yet with a good core of fruit.
